AUTOMATIC MERIT AID SCHOLARSHIPS

- Most often public state universities
- Occasionally private universities publish a matrix or table -- but bear in mind that private university merit aid is often not "assured" in the same way it is with public state universities (usually subject to holistic review)

HOLISTIC REVIEW MERIT SCHOLARSHIPS

Second Century Scholars

Awarded to incoming, first-year students who demonstrate exceptional academic credentials and personal achievement. This award is based on a comprehensive, holistic review of the SMU admissions application.

Maximum Award Amount: $80,000 payable up to $20,000 per year or $10,000 per semester for eight semesters, four years or graduation whichever comes first. To be eligible for renewal the recipient must maintain a SMU GPA OF 3.000 or greater and full-time enrollment.

AES Review Criteria

Applicants are reviewed individually and holistically for AES. Consideration is given to the following factors:

- Overall grades in academic coursework and trends in achievement
- Strength of high school curriculum, including level of rigor (AP, IB, dual credit)
- High school rank and GPA
- SAT I or ACT test scores, if available
- Information provided in the résumé, optional essay and/or optional letters of recommendation
 - Applicants may submit one essay on any topic from Apply Texas or the Common Application
 - Letters of recommendation are suggested, but not required, and limited to a maximum of three

No specific achievement in any category of the AES award factors guarantees a scholarship or specific award level.

The quantity and quality of freshman applicants influences the AES awarding process. The award process is competitive and previous years should not be used to set expectations for scholarship awards.

COMPETITION MERIT SCHOLARSHIPS

- Phase 1: may require a separate application and/or additional essays
- Phase 2: may require an interview
- Phase 3: often involves required participation in a "Scholars weekend" -- students participate in collaborative group projects, interview with faculty and/or current students, and attend special events on campus
- Typically 25-50% of students who attend the Scholars Weekend competition will receive the top competitive scholarship award
- "Consolation prize" is often still a reasonably substantial scholarship

MERIT AID SCHOLARSHIPS: KEY POINTS

- Offered by public and private colleges
- Transparency varies widely from a clear matrix to vague statistics ("We award $15 million in scholarships each year, and up to 65% of our students receive some scholarship aid")
- Many colleges award merit aid to students with a wide range of academic strengths -- in other words, even "B students" may receive merit aid awards
- Many large flagship public universities offer merit aid to attract out-of-state students -- it may reduce the costs such that it is equivalent to or cheaper than in-state resident rates
- The more selective a university, the less likely that it offers merit aid at all and/or the more competitive it will be to receive an award
- Ivy League schools (plus a large number of colleges that top the rankings lists) do not offer merit aid
- Often awarded automatically (other than competition scholarships)
- Typically renews for remaining 3 years of college

FOUNDATION / COLLEGE PARTNERSHIP SCHOLARSHIPS

- Foundations partner with certain designated participating universities to award significant scholarships
- Some are purely merit-based, others are purely needs-based, and some are a combination (merit with a needs component)
- Some require nomination by high school counselor
- Deadlines are typically early
- Often requires separate application and additional essay(s)

STAMPS SCHOLARS

- Academic excellence, leadership experience, and character
- Leadership experience is the most important criteria
- Financial need is not a consideration
- 32 partner institutions (mix of public and private colleges)
- Recipients vary from among the schools (3-40 recipients)
- Amounts vary -- most colleges award full-cost, plus stipends for study abroad or internships
- Some partner colleges require separate application; for others, it is automatic but tied to the early-action application deadline
