

High School for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice

Summary

The High School for Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice began in 1978 on three different campuses as a cooperative effort between HISD, the Mayor’s Office and the Houston Police Department. In 1980, the current school opened at its existing location with a special effort to recruit minorities into HPD.

The school’s Project Advisory Team has been working with its architects and HISD facility planners to design a new 21st century learning facility to serve generations of students to come, while building on the school’s history and traditions.
