

Joe Day (Social Studies) is originally from Corpus Christi, and graduated from Texas A&M University – Corpus Christi in 2006. In 2008, Joe moved to Seoul, South Korea to begin a life teaching overseas. In 2010, he continued to Istanbul, Turkey – a city and country that he holds very dear to his heart. In 2016, he moved to Hanoi, Vietnam, teaching at an IB Accredited International School, where he picked up cutting edge IB teaching styles. A lifelong learner and absolute fanatic for History and Geography of all types, Joe spent much of the decade traveling, having visited nearly 30 countries along the way. While overseas, Joe became a student and advocate for smart, effective technology use in the classroom – and operates a paperless class where lessons are often flipped to engage and challenge his students in new ways. He also vlogs, loves photography, board games, hiking/biking, and computer programming among his many other Social Studies pursuits.
