

My name is Karem Chandler. This year I am celebrating my 25th year anniversary as an educator, I am still completely in love with my profession!

Throughout the years, I've had the privilege of teaching students with special needs and students learning English as their second language. I have also had the opportunity to support teachers and parents as a facilitator and building capacity.

I am a proud and happy wife of a wonderful man and a mother of two exceptional kids (yes, I am probably bias). My son Mauricio is a sophomore in college and my daughter Camila is a freshman in High School.

I enjoy reading psychological thrillers and even though I don't have an artistic talent, I truly enjoy visiting museums and attending all shows offered in the Houston theater district.

This school year I feel honored to be serving you here at HSPVA as the Special Education Chairperson. I will be working with students, teachers and parents to ensure that all academic and artistic goals of our students are met.
