Some thoughts on teaching and studying history

- If you're going to do it, do it right
- Never rest on your laurels
- History is almost limitless in scope and depth, if you can't find anything interesting you aren't paying attention
- The most important phrase in pursuing in history is "so what"... how does it tie in? Why does it matter? Who is effected?
- Understanding the world's religions is essential to becoming a global citizen, and the way into a better future
