Yes. Although we are near capacity in Pre-K, we do have seats available in all grade levels.

What is the behavior like at Felix Cook?

Our community of children and adults comprise a social environment and culture that affects the child's experience. We strive to make this environment emotionally supportive and safe for every child. This year, we have included social emotional-wellness intervention teams. Accompanied with our campus counselor, we are more focused on supporting students emotionally, as well as cognitively.

This does not mean that there are no problems. It does mean that we will work with your child in developmentally appropriate ways to deal with problems as they arise, empowering your child with social skills and aiding your child in the development of emotional intelligence to prepare for a lifetime of working with others in different communities and organizations.

What are the expectations?

Model for your children respect-- for them, their classmates, parents of classmates, teachers and other school staff—in short, for everyone associated with the school. Respect begins with civility and deepens into trust. Our most fundamental behavioral guidelines for the children are: “respect yourself, respect others and respect the environment.” Our goal is to achieve the same level of respect at all times and in all relationships within the school community.
