

Caught in the Act

VIDEO ANALYSIS PROTOCOL

OVERVIEW

HISD has kicked off a monthly video series to recognize effective teachers delivering great instruction. It's called "Caught in the Act" (CIA), and its goal is to demonstrate what high-quality teaching looks like by spotlighting instructors from across the district. Teachers can be nominated for the video series via email at HISDcia@houstonisd.org.

We'd like every member of Team HISD to act as a "Caught in the Act" or CIA agent. So when you see great instruction going on, take a picture and share it with us on social media using the hashtag #HISDcia.

Additionally, we encourage school leaders and teachers to view and analyze the CIA videos in order to share and discuss effective instructional practices aligned to the HISD Global Graduate profile.

VIDEO ANALYSIS

Directions: Watch the quick video clip of an HISD teacher in action. As you watch the clip, consider the following questions:

1. What did you find to be effective in this video? What made it effective?
2. What evidence did you see to support the development of a global graduate?

REFLECTIONS

1. What structures were in place to facilitate this quality practice?
2. How does this video support you in developing quality learning experiences for your students?
3. What are you doing in your daily instruction to develop students with the six global graduate competencies?
