Support when you need it
Your questions and concerns matter. Just call the number on your member ID card.
Resources at your fingertips
Managing your health can be a bigger task than you ever expected. This new online center is chock-full of tips and tools to help you care for your health. It covers everything from routine screenings to information and resources for prostate cancer patients and their families.
You’ll find:
• Checklists and questions to ask your doctor
• Treatment decision support resources
• Information about how to talk to family and friends about your illness
You can also check out articles, videos and more. Plus, it’s personalized to you and your health plan. And you can find it all in one place.

Accept a helping hand
There’s a lot to think about when it comes to cancer. You shouldn’t have to take it all on by yourself.
A health companion can be your go-to person for transportation to and from treatments. They can help you remember important questions to ask, jot down notes or keep you company. Just having someone with you at appointments may help you feel like you’re not alone. Consider asking a friend, family member or even a volunteer to be your health companion.
