Course description and Objective:

Forensic Science is a course that introduces students to the application of science to connect a violation of law to a specific criminal, criminal act, or behavior and victim. Students will learn terminology and procedures related to the search and examination of physical evidence in criminal cases as they are performed in a typical crime laboratory. Using scientific methods, students will collect and analyze evidence such as fingerprints, bodily fluids, hairs, fibers, paint, glass, and cartridge cases. Students will also learn the history and the legal aspects as they relate to each discipline of forensic science. This course satisfies a high school science graduation requirement.

How Students will Succeed with the objective:

- Students will utilize scientific terminology, principles and investigative processing which will prepare them for college and university laboratory science courses, as well as in technical fields.
- Students will strengthen their communication skills through maintenance of a properly documented e-method, individual and group research reports, experimental reports, and oral presentations.
- Students will utilize computer and advanced technology tools to assist in detecting and collecting evidence, experiment simulations, analyzing the data, research and to develop online references.
- Students will investigate careers in Forensic Science and other related fields.
