

My name is Brent Telle. I am originally from Austin, Texas and have a B.A. in history and minor in anthropology from Texas A&M University. I am certified to teach social studies 7-12 and will be instructing 7th grade Texas History. Before joining BCMA, I was a commissioned officer in the US Army as an Explosive Ordnance Disposal (EOD) platoon leader, including a deployment to Afghanistan. I moved to Houston after completing my military service and joined AmeriCorps through Volunteer Houston to better serve the veteran community. I also began associate teaching for Houston ISD, where I substituted at BCMA several times. I was inspired by the culture and atmosphere of the school, and wanted to make a positive contribution to the development of the students through teaching. I have high expectations for all students and look forward to a great year of learning and success.
