1. Project Update
  - a. Mr. Marvin Stone, HISD Project Manager opened the meeting and updated the PAT on the current status of the project. He explained the design process and phases. The project is currently in the beginning of the Schematic Design Phase.
2. General Overview – Mr. Patrick Glenn, Perkins+Will Architects recapped the Design Charrette presentation from the May 12, and 13, 2014 Design Charrette that took place at Rice University. He then reviewed the four site options that were developed.
  - a. Review of the four site plan options
    - i. Option 1 – Practice fields in a North-South orientation, but only 3 full size fields will fit. The existing storage building and batting cages need to be relocated.
    - ii. Option 2 – Practice fields in an East-West orientation, again only 3 full size fields will fit. The tennis courts on the ground in lieu of on top of the parking garage. The existing storage building and batting cages need to be relocated.
    - iii. Option 3 – Four full size practice fields will fit on site in an East-West orientation. The existing storage building and batting cages can remain, however batting cages will no longer be adjacent to baseball field.

- iv. Option 4 – Three full size practice fields, not all in the same orientation. Provides a better site circulation. The tennis courts are on the ground, however there is only room for three courts.
- b. Comments on the four options
  - i. There was agreement that four practice fields are most desirable.
  - ii. The PAT would prefer the existing storage building, which also includes restrooms, to remain along with existing batting cages.
  - iii. The PAT expressed concerns that fields are too close to the existing trees along West Alabama Street, and will result in difficulties in maintaining grass growth. The PAT suggested that the trees be removed
