SPOTLIGHT

STEPPING UP THE PACE: IMPROVING ATTENDANCE, A “How to” Mini-Guide Excerpt

“What we know is that there are no “silver bullet” approaches -- there is no magic formula nor is there a canned approach capable of reaching and sustaining high levels of student attendance. Successful schools work on attendance issues on multiple fronts, over time, learning from the field, and learning from the results of their own efforts. These schools know that boosting attendance is a continuous process. As students, families, communities, and schools change, so must strategies aimed at improving attendance. Successful schools face the big question head on -- “How are we contributing to absenteeism and how can we work with parents and communities to keep young people engaged, in school, and learning what they need to know to be successful?”
