In this unit, students will explore and study the genre of Fiction (Realistic, Historical, Traditional, and Diverse) using the strategy of Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore reading comprehension through the strategy of Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst) to explain the roles various characters play in the conflict and resolution of the plot, as well as analyze character interactions through inferring using textual evidence. Students will respond to fictional texts through Quickwrites (Rief), which will provide the seeds for composing future fictional texts. As students consume texts in the fiction genre (Realistic, Historic, Traditional, and Diverse), they will Notice and Name (Wood Ray) author’s craft, which they will later apply to their writing. As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have, and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including genre characteristics and author’s craft. Students will also explore some fiction characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. Students will apply what they learned from this genre study as they produce their own fictional texts. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to text and write fiction incorporating the proper use of simple and compound sentences with a focus on the proper use of nouns and irregular verbs and use of punctuation marks through the Invitation to Notice (Anderson). During Inquiry and Research, students will brainstorm research topics and generate and clarify questions to develop a research plan using information from a variety of sources. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block. The teacher will use the 25 Day Literature Circles Launch to explicitly teach routines and procedures during guided reading and literature circles. Additionally, the First 25 Day Writer’s Workshop will provide strategies on how to implement the writing workshop to incorporate the writing process in daily writing activities.

Essential Question: How much influence does fictional text have to help us connect and relate to our diverse world?

ELA.5.7F Respond using newly acquired vocabulary as appropriate.

Strand 4: Multiple Genres—Literary Elements

- ELA.5.8A Infer multiple themes within a text using text evidence.
- ELA.5.8B Analyze the relationships of and conflicts among the characters.
- ELA.5.8C Analyze plot elements, including rising action, climax, falling action, and resolution.
- ELA.5.8D Analyze the influence of the setting, including historical and cultural settings, on the plot.

Strand 4: Multiple Genres—Genres

- ELA.5.9A Demonstrate knowledge of distinguishing characteristics of well-known children’s literature such as folktales, fables, legends, myths, and tall tales.
- ELA.5.9F Recognize characteristics of multimodal and digital texts.

Strand 5: Author’s Purpose and Craft

- ELA.5.10A Explain the author’s purpose and message within a text.
- ELA.5.10B Analyze how the use of text structure contributes to the author’s purpose.
- ELA.5.10C Analyze the author’s use of print and graphic features to achieve specific purposes.
- ELA.5.10D Describe how the author’s use of imagery, literal and figurative language such as simile and metaphor, and sound devices achieves specific purposes.
- ELA.5.10E Identify and understand the use of literary devices, including first- or third-person point of view.
- ELA.5.10F Examine how the author’s use of language contributes to voice.

Strand 6: Composition—Writing Process

- ELA.5.11A Plan a first draft by selecting a genre for a particular topic, purpose, and audience using a range of strategies such as brainstorming, freewriting, and mapping.
- ELA.5.11B.i Develop drafts into a focused, structured, and coherent piece of writing by organizing with purposeful structure, including an introduction, transitions, and a conclusion
- ELA.5.11B.ii Develop drafts into a focused, structured, and coherent piece of writing by developing an engaging idea reflecting depth of thought with specific facts and details.
- ELA.5.11C Revise drafts to improve sentence structure and word choice by adding, deleting, combining, and rearranging ideas for coherence and clarity.
- ELA.5.11D.i Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including complete simple and compound sentences with subject-verb agreement and avoidance of splices, run-ons, and fragments.
- ELA.5.11D.ii Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including irregular verbs.
- ELA.5.11D.iii Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including collective nouns.
Essential Question: How much can I learn from other’s experiences?

In this unit of study, students will explore the genre of Drama using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing characters and making inferences using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, structure and literary elements. While interacting with these texts, students will analyze the similarities and differences between an original text and its dramatic adaptation, as well as evaluate the impact of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language in a play. Students will respond to text through Quickwrites (Rief). Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the impact and purpose of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language, which they will later apply to their writing. Students will also synthesize the text and make connections to other texts as they produce their own personal narratives. Additionally, students will also explore characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to texts and write a personal narrative incorporating the usage of conjunctive adverbs, prepositions, prepositional phrases, and the influence of subject-verb agreement with a focus on the proper use of commas in compound sentences, capitalization and use of punctuation marks using the Invitation to Notice (Anderson) strategy. Students will continue Inquiry and Research by demonstrating an understanding of gathered information and differentiating between paraphrasing and plagiarism.

Ongoing TEKS

ELA.5.11D.iv Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including adjectives, including those indicating origin, and their comparative and superlative forms.
ELA.5.11D.x Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including punctuation marks, including commas in compound and complex sentences, quotation marks for dialogue, italics and underlining for titles and emphasis, and quotation marks for titles.
ELA.5.11D.xi Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including correct spelling of words with grade-appropriate orthographic patterns and rules.
ELA.5.11E Publish written work for appropriate audiences.

Strand 6: Composition—Genres
ELA.5.12A Compose literary texts such as personal narratives, fiction, and poetry using genre characteristics and craft.

Strand 7: Inquiry and Research
ELA.5.13A Generate and clarify questions on a topic for formal and informal inquiry.
ELA.5.13B Develop and follow a research plan with adult assistance.
ELA.5.13C Identify and gather relevant information from a variety of sources.
ELA.5.13D Understand credibility of primary and secondary sources.
ELA.5.13E Demonstrate understanding of information gathered.
ELA.5.13F Differentiate between paraphrasing and plagiarism when using source materials.
ELA.5.13G Develop a bibliography.
ELA.5.13H Use an appropriate mode of delivery, whether, written, oral, or multimodal, to present results.

Unit 4: Informational Text

In this unit of study, students will explore the genre of Informational text using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing informational text and making inferences using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, and structure. Additionally, students will also explore some of this genre characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. While interacting with these texts, students will draw conclusions from the information presented by the author, analyze the text structure used by the author and how it influences the relationships among ideas. Additionally, students will use text features to locate information throughout the text and summarize the main idea and supporting details. Students will respond to informational text through Quickwrites (Rief) Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the purpose of text features, and text structure which they will later apply to their writing. Students will also summarize the text and make connections to other text as they produce their own expository writing. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to texts and write an informational essay incorporating the usage of simple and compound sentences, adjectives, conjunctions, capitalization, commas in compound sentences, and correct spelling of words. Additionally, during Inquiry and Research, students will brainstorm research topics and generate and clarify questions to develop a research plan using information from a variety of sources. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block.

Strand 2: Comprehension Skills
- ELA.5.6A Establish purpose for reading assigned and self-selected texts.
- ELA.5.6B Generate questions about text before, during, and after reading to deepen understanding and gain information.
- ELA.5.6C Make, correct, or confirm predictions using text features, characteristics of genre, and structures.
- ELA.5.6D Create mental images to deepen understanding.
- ELA.5.6E Make connections to personal experiences, ideas in other texts, and society.
- ELA.5.6F Make inferences and use evidence to support understanding.
- ELA.5.6G Evaluate details read to determine key ideas.
- ELA.5.6H Synthesize information to create new understanding.
- ELA.5.6I Monitor comprehension and make adjustments such as re-reading, using background knowledge, asking questions, and annotating when understanding breaks down.

Strand 3: Response Skills
- ELA.5.7B Write responses that demonstrate understanding of texts, including comparing and contrasting ideas across a variety of sources.
- ELA.5.7C Use text evidence to support an appropriate response.
- ELA.5.7D Retell, paraphrase, or summarize texts in ways that maintain meaning and logical order.
- ELA.5.7E Interact with sources in meaningful ways such as notetaking, annotating, freewriting, or illustrating.
- ELA.5.7F Respond using newly acquired vocabulary as appropriate.
- ELA.5.7G Discuss specific ideas in the text that are important to the meaning.

Strand 4: Multiple Genres—Genres
- ELA.5.9D.i Recognize characteristics and structures of informational text, including the central idea with supporting evidence.
- ELA.5.9D.ii Recognize characteristics and structures of informational text, including features such as insets, timelines, and sidebars to support understanding.
- ELA.5.9D.iii Recognize characteristics and structures of informational text, including organizational patterns such as logical order and order of importance.
- ELA.5.9F Recognize characteristics of multimodal and digital texts.

Strand 5: Author’s Purpose and Craft
- ELA.5.10A Explain the author’s purpose and message within a text.
- ELA.5.10B Analyze how the use of text structure contributes to the author’s purpose.
- ELA.5.10C Analyze the author’s use of print and graphic features to achieve specific purposes.
- ELA.5.10E Identify and understand the use of literary devices, including first- or third-person point of view.
- ELA.5.10F Examine how the author’s use of language contributes to voice.
- ELA.5.10G Explain the purpose of hyperbole, stereotyping, and anecdote.

Strand 6: Composition—Writing Process

ELA.5.11D.i Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including complete simple and compound sentences with subject-verb agreement and avoidance of splices, run-ons, and fragments.

ELA.5.11D.iv Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including adjectives, including those indicating origin, and their comparative and superlative forms.

ELA.5.11D.viii Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including subordinating conjunctions to form complex sentences.

ELA.5.11D.ix Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including capitalization of initials, acronyms, and organizations.

ELA.5.11D.x Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including punctuation marks, including commas in compound and complex sentences, quotation marks for dialogue, italics and underlining for titles and emphasis, and quotation marks for titles.

ELA.5.11D.xi Edit drafts using standard English conventions, including correct spelling of words with grade-appropriate orthographic patterns and rules.

Strand 7: Inquiry and Research

ELA.5.13A Generate and clarify questions on a topic for formal and informal inquiry.

ELA.5.13B Develop and follow a research plan with adult assistance.

ELA.5.13C Identify and gather relevant information from a variety of sources.

ELA.5.13D Understand credibility of primary and secondary sources.

ELA.5.13E Demonstrate understanding of information gathered.

ELA.5.13F Differentiate between paraphrasing and plagiarism when using source materials.

ELA.5.13G Develop a bibliography.

ELA.5.13H Use an appropriate mode of delivery, whether, written, oral, or multimodal, to present results.

Unit 5: Argumentative Text

In this unit of study, students will explore the genre of Argumentative Text using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing Argumentative text making inferences and drawing conclusions using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique these texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, and structure. Additionally, students will also explore some of this genre characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. While interacting with these texts, students will draw conclusions from the information presented by the author, find and verify the facts presented in the text, identify the author’s...
Students will also study various forms of media and consider the difference in techniques used in media. Students will also synthesize the text and make connections to other texts. Students will respond to argumentative texts through Quickwrites (Rief). Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the purpose of text features, and text structure which they will later apply to their writing. Students will also summarize the text and make connections to other text as they produce their own argumentative writing. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to texts and write an argumentative essay incorporating the usage of irregular verbs, conjunctive verbs, pronouns, capitalization, and correct spelling of words. Additionally, during Inquiry and Research, students will brainstorm research topics and generate and clarify questions to develop a research plan using information from a variety of sources. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the fluid literacy block.

Ongoing TEKS
In this unit of study, students will explore the genre of Literary Nonfiction using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by determining the structure and key features of the genre using Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique nonfiction texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, and how they present major events in a person’s life. While interacting with these texts, students will analyze how authors present major events in a person’s life and identify the literary language used to communicate a message or theme. Students will also identify similarities and differences and make connections with literary nonfiction and experiences written in fictional work. Students will respond to literary text through Quickwrites (Rief) Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the purpose of different author’s craft techniques which they will later apply to their writing. Students will also make connections to literary nonfiction and experiences written in fictional work as they produce their personal narrative essays. The teacher will model this process by writing with the students. Students will respond to text and write a personal narrative essay incorporating the usage of complete simple and compound sentences, irregular verbs, pronouns, conjunctions capitalization and correct punctuation through the Invitation to Notice (Anderson) strategy. Additionally, during Inquiry and Research, students will record bibliographic information and use an appropriate mode of delivery, whether written, oral, or multimodal, to present results. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block.

Global Graduate

Drama

Essential Question: What can I do to transform the world in a positive way?

Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing characters and making inferences using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, structure, and literary elements. While interacting with these texts, students will analyze the similarities and differences between an original text and its dramatic adaptation, as well as evaluate the impact of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language in a play. Students will respond to text through Quickwrites (Rief) Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the impact and purpose of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language, which they will later apply to their writing. Students will also make connections to other text as they produce their own personal narratives. Additionally, students will also explore some drama characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to texts and write a personal narrative incorporating the usage of conjunctive adverbs, prepositions, prepositional phrases, and the influence of subject-verb agreement with a focus on the proper use of commas in compound sentences, capitalization and use of punctuation marks. Additionally, during Inquiry and Research, students will brainstorm research topics and generate and clarify questions to develop a research plan using information from a variety of sources. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block.

Ongoing TEKS

Unit 8: Literary Text (Poetry)

In this unit of study, students will review the genre of Poetry using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O’Flahavan). Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing poems and making inferences using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have and Won’t Have (Katie Wood Ray), including author’s craft, genre characteristics, structure and literary elements. While interacting with these texts, students will analyze how poets use sound effects to reinforce meaning, as well as evaluate the impact of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language in literary text. Students will also summarize the text and make connections to other texts. Students will respond to text through Quickwrites (Rief). Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the impact and

Unit 11: Literary Text (Fiction)

In this unit, students will review the genre of Fiction using Consume, Critique, and Produce (O'Flahavan). Students will explore reading comprehension through the strategy of Book. Head, Heart (Beers and Probst) to explain the roles various characters play in the conflict and resolution of the plot, as well as analyze character interactions through inferencing using textual evidence. Students will respond to fictional texts through Quickwrites (Rief), which will provide ideas for composing future fictional texts. As students consume texts in the fiction genre (Realistic, Historic, and Traditional), they will Notice and Name (Wood Ray) author's craft, which they will later apply to their writing. As students consume and critique mentor texts, they will notice what this genre Must Have, Might Have, and Won’t Have (Wood Ray), including genre characteristics and author’s craft. Students will also review some fiction characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. Students will apply what they learned from this genre study as they produce their own fictional texts. The teacher will model this process by writing alongside the students. Students will respond to text and write fiction incorporating the proper use of simple and compound sentences with a focus on the proper use of nouns and irregular verbs and use of punctuation marks using the Invitation to Notice strategy (Anderson). Additionally, students will continue Inquiry and Research by brainstorming research topics, generating questions to develop a research plan using information from a variety of sources. Then, they will demonstrate an understanding of gathered information and differentiate between paraphrasing and plagiarism. Foundational Language skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block.

7. Inquiry and Research
In this unit of study, students will do a review and thematic study of Fiction and Nonfiction genres. Students will explore and develop reading comprehension by analyzing characters, making inferences, drawing conclusions using the strategy Book, Head, Heart (Beers and Probst). While interacting with these texts, students will also synthesize, compare and contrast themes across genres using Notice and Note Signposts (Beers and Probst). Additionally, students will analyze the author’s purpose across fiction and nonfiction texts and some of the of these genre characteristics found in multimodal and digital texts. Students will respond to text through Quickwrites (Rief) Students will identify author’s craft using Notice and Name (Wood Ray) to evaluate the purpose of sensory details, imagery, and figurative language. Students will also evaluate the purpose of text features, and text structure which they will later apply to their writing choice. (Personal Narrative, Informational, or Argumentative). The teacher will model the writing process by writing with the students using the Invitation to Notice (Anderson) strategy. Students will respond to text and write essays of their choice incorporating the usage of complete simple and compound sentences, conjunctive verbs, subordinating conjunctions, capitalization, and correct spelling of words. During Inquiry and Research, students will present their research results using either written, oral or multimodal delivery depending on the audience. Foundational Language Skills such as oral language, word study, and vocabulary are embedded in mini-lessons and the Fluid Literacy Block.
