Tips for Starting Prekindergarten

1. Visit your local library during a read-aloud time so your child gets used to hearing someone other than Mom, Dad, or Grandpa read aloud book in a group setting.

2. Establish a routine of “early to bed” and “school wake-up time” several weeks before school begins so your child has time to adjust to the new schedule.

3. Arrange play dates with children who will be in your child’s class. Usually moms or dads go along on these early play dates. Ask the teacher or school for a list of children who will be in your child’s class.

4. If there’s a home visit or school visiting day, make sure you and your child participate. If you aren’t able to participate, call the school to arrange for a visit to the school and to meet your child’s teacher.

5. Make a book at home about the new preschool experience your child is about to begin. Perhaps take photos of the school or of your child in front of school and add text like: “This is Sammy at school. This is her favorite t-shirt. This is Mommy picking up Sammy when school is over.”

6. Let your child pick out a new backpack and together write her name on it.

7. Tell stories about when you went to school and share how you felt about it. Find childhood pictures of yourself and other adults in your child’s life and talk about the photos.

8. If your child has never before been cared for by someone else, start to leave her for short periods of time with friends or relatives. Reinforce the fact that you will return and that she is safe with others.

9. Read books about going to school and saying goodbye, such as
   - The Kissing Hand by Audrey Penn
   - David Goes to School by David Shannon
   - Will I Have a Friend? by Miriam Cohen
   - First Day of School by Anne Rockwell
   - When I Miss You by Cornelia Maude Spelman
   - Take a Kiss to School by Angela McAllister
   - It’s Time for Preschool by Esme Raj Codell
   - A Pocketful of Kisses by Audrey Penn

10. Remember that separation is a process. Expect that your child (or yourself) will need time to feel comfortable with the new situation.
