

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

Dear Valued Community Member,

I have observed that you have noticed my child's behavior. Please know that he/she has autism, a developmental disorder that causes him/her to feel and experience things differently than most people. In response to these different experiences he/she may scream, tantrum, or run. Please know that we are working diligently to help him/her learn alternative responses, but change takes time. Thank you for your understanding and support. If you have any further questions about autism feel free to call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM or visit:

<http://www.nationalautismassociation.org/>

