HISD's Longfellow ES students to announce top 10 toys for the holidays

WHAT: Fifth-grade students at Longfellow Elementary School will announce the top 10 toys for children this holiday season based on the results of surveys they conducted.

This marks the tenth consecutive year that the students have conducted a toy survey. In addition to presenting their findings, the students will showcase samples of the top toys, which will be provided by Target.

The students have worked in teams for more than a month to survey classmates. The surveys were done on the playground and in the cafeteria.

Last year, Longfellow students selected action figures and slime kits as the top toys of the 2018 holiday season.

Reporters are invited to attend and interview students and school staff.
