

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.

Autism

Helpful Hints for Interactions with Individuals with Autism

- Use simple language; speak slowly and clearly.
- Use concrete terms and ideas.
- Repeat simple questions, allowing 10-15 seconds for a response.
- Give lots of praise and encouragement.
- Pair verbal instructions with visual supports, such as pictures or gestures.
- Break difficult tasks into simple steps and teach each step one at a time.

Remember: each individual with autism is unique and may act or react differently.

For more information, call the Autism Society of America @ 1-800-3AUTISM.