You will find that you have already had lots of experiences with physics so far! We want to draw that information from your brain so that we can start using it to construct your understanding of the content.

Please complete the following:

- Go to the page in OneNote for the Team you joined in Assignment #1. It's titled "Show What You Know"
- In this space you will map out everything you already know, think, have questions about related to physics. This could be done as drawings, equations, written descriptions, graphs – whatever works for you! Be detailed and include as much information as you can – nothing is really off limits.
- If you want to include any type of video or link to anything else, just include that on the OneNote page.
